WATCH Hublot Classic Fusion Aeromoon

THIS MONTH IT'S NOT A GMT OR A WORLDTIMER but a new moon phase watch. This contemporary "skeleton" watch from Hublot displays a full calendar and lunar cycle, as well as simple date and day and month indications.

The moon is in grey, in a 13mm-diameter round window at six o'clock; the two small moons appear in turn thanks to its partially frosted glass. The disc performs one revolution over two lunar months and is driven by a 59-tooth wheel that advances one tooth every 24 hours.

A transparent sapphire dial reveals the mechanical detail of the piece. The date, day and month discs are skeletonised, and the combination of black, grey and anthracite tones creates an impression of depth.

The piece is finished with a black strap of alligator leather sewn on to rubber. With a diameter of 45mm, two versions are available: one in "king gold" (Hublot's famous red gold, £20,400) and the other in titanium (£10,300). hublot.com
